Allowable Subject Matter

1. Claims 1-5 are allowed.
2. The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter: These claims are indicated as allowable because the prior art fails to teach the claimed invention. More specifically, the prior art fails to teach a method of instructing a user to read musical notation through interaction with a graphical user interface and an input device coupled to a drum pad, comprising the steps of: generating the graphical user interface, having a first position, including a virtual drum set, incorporating a music file into the graphical user interface, wherein the music file contains data corresponding to an arrangement having a rhythmic pattern; directing a first game object, representing the first musical note in the arrangement, toward a first pad on the virtual drumpad, corresponding to the first musical note, such that the first game object will experience a first collision with the first pad; directing a second game object, representing the second musical note in the arrangement, upward, toward a second pad on the virtual drumpad, corresponding to the second musical note, such that the second game object will experience a second collision with the second bar or pad, according to the rhythmic pattern of the arrangement; and awarding a value to the user based upon the user striking the corresponding input drumpad approximately simultaneously with the first and second collisions. While there are many prior art teachings for instructing a user to read musical notation, the prior art fails to teach in the manner described above. For this reason, the claims above are indicated as allowable.

This application is in condition for allowance except for the following formal matters:

There are non-elected claims that must be cancelled before allowance.

Prosecution on the merits is closed in accordance with the practice under Ex parte Quayle, 25 USPQ 74, 453 O.G. 213, (Comm'r Pat. 1935).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this action is set to expire TWO MONTHS from the mailing date of this letter.
